

WORLD-CLASS THINKING...

EMOTIONAL CAPITAL, NEUROPLASTICITY AND THE FUTURE OF WORK

A ONE-DAY CONFERENCE FEATURING
AMY BRANN AND DR KAREN MOLONEY

Royal Garden Hotel, Kensington, London – Thursday 15th March 2018

Key Learnings

DR KAREN MOLONEY

Karen Moloney turns good professionals into outstanding leaders. As a chartered psychologist and author, Karen will share her ideas on demographics, talent, the building of emotional capital and culture change.

Her current interests cover male and female leadership styles, the impact of technology on business models and strategic alignment in complex matrix organisations. With a passion for human difference, Karen takes a hard and critical look at issues such as diversity and smashes a few management myths along the way.

AMY BRANN

Amy Brann explores the essential building blocks of change and explains the fascinating science that shapes our decisions and behaviours daily. Amy's sessions will dramatically improve our knowledge of how learning happens in the brain, which in turn will have positive ripple effects throughout our organisations and deliver returns for years to come.

Delegates will take away the key discoveries and areas of neuroscience we need to be aware of, and be empowered to develop the behavioural flexibility of our peers and team members.
